Hearthstone Transfer Hearing

The California Alcoholic Beverage Board will call a public hearing here on the transfer of the Mark Thomas Hearthstone on sale liquor license from its present location on Ocean Avenue to the Taxi Depot opposite the City Park, the Pine Cone learned unofficially but reliably today.

The transfer was officially approved by the city council (though this is unprecedented; the only action necessary is no action) on the advice of the City Attorney Thomas Perry, who told the council members that the "city didn't have a case."

One city councilman, Carl Patnude, thought the city had a case. Outvoted, Patnude protested to the state board as a citizen, that the proposed location would be a violation of the city ordinance which requires that both on and off-sale licenses must be subsidiary to other sales.

The new Presbyterian Church, across the park from the proposed location, protested officially on the same grounds. Others in the community protested as individuals.

This will be the first time a hearing has been called in Carmel that was not requested by the city council. Those who have protested will be notified by the state board of time and place.

The hearing could have been called on any of the following contingencies (this is a copy of the letter sent to the city in acknowledging the city's protest on The Pink Elephant's application for an off-goods store at Pilot's Market.)

This will acknowledge receipt of the protest filed by you against the issuance of an alcoholic beverage license to the above. A copy of the protest is being forwarded to the applicant.

If our Area Office recommends that the application be approved, a hearing on your protest will be scheduled to be heard before a hearing officer of this Department. You will be notified of the date, time and place of hearing.

If the Department denies the application, the applicant may request a hearing before the hearing officer. If such a request is made, the hearing will be held on your protest along with his request.

If the applicant does not request a hearing after the denial of the application, it will not be necessary for a hearing to be held on your protest. Therefore, in the absence of further notification to you, you may assume that the application has been approved.

Teague Watercolor In N. A. Special

A Donald Teague watercolor hung in the watercolor show of the National Academy of Design which opened today at the Academy's Galleries, Fifth Avenue, New York and will continue through December.

The watercolor was painted from a sketch Teague made of fishermen at Capri, after his return to Carmel in September. It was one of 183 found acceptable by the judges of 1352 entries.

Teague has taken first prize three times in the water color division of these shows.

Colonel William Freehoff Is Expert On Trees, The Family Variety

BY BOB KALLER

Heraldry may be a lost art according to the social history books but not so far as Col. William F. Freehoff is concerned. One of the six members of the English College of Heraldry, Col. Freehoff came by his hobby naturally enough. Born of a family that came to this country in 1686, he developed an interest in family trees soon after he first saw the light of day—in Philadelphia in 1892.

Later he went to school at Lehigh University (after a boyhood spent in New York State) and finally entered the Army for a career. Promptly shipped to the Philippines, in 1914, he soon had a few brushes with the Moros, who were still not too fond of either Americans or law and order.

Subsequent service in Texas, Nebraska, and North Carolina prepared him thoroughly for combat, and when the U.S. entered the First World War, the Colonel took a company to France. Here he fought through the Marne, Aisne and Champagne campaigns, compiling a brilliant record and accumulating the Distinguished Service Cross, three Silver Stars, two Purple Hearts, the French Legion of Honor, the Croix de Guerre, and the Belgian Croix de Guerre. After the war, he added the Japanese Order of Merit and the Mexican Order of Military Merit to this impressive collection.

From 1922 to 1924 he was sent back to the Philippines, serving under Gen. MacArthur, then at the rambunctious top of his form. In 1923 Freehoff headed a Japanese Earthquake Mission, setting up hospitals in that country and

"A Fire Siren Is Sacred" Even For Retiring Chief

Yesterday Carmel bought a bigger, better, shriller fire siren, 7½ or 10 H. P.; last night Carmel gave a testimonial dinner for its retiring fire chief, 33 years of service.

And nobody blew the siren.

When asked why the normal reaction to such a combination of events had not occurred, Fire Commissioner Carl Patnude laughed:

"It is a point; isn't it?" Added "We had a nice party last night, 161 people, but a fire siren is sacred—why we took the ambulance off the siren, and now use the horn or the phone."

Fire Chief Vincent Torras and his wife, Mary, received the thanks and praise of the citizens of Carmel at a banquet at the Mission Ranch honoring Torras' 33 years service with the Carmel Volunteer Fire Department.

"It is men such as Vince who have made Carmel what it is and keep it that way," said Councilman Francis Whitaker talking as a friend who had known Torras for 30 years.

"Vince has taken care of us for 33 years," was master of ceremonies and Honorary Fire Chief Harrison Godwin's introductory remark.

"We cannot adequately thank Vince for his time which he gave without pay, for the excellent fire department he has built for Carmel. We also thank Mrs. Torras for her years of patient, quiet help. Without her aid Vince could not have been such an outstanding fireman."

Fire Commissioner Carl Patnude expressed his appreciation of the help he had received from Chief Torras, especially in selecting Torras' successor, Chief Robert Smith, Carmel's first paid fire chief.

"A less big man than Vince, would not have worked so hard to find the right man to take his place," said Patnude.

Present Fire Chief Robert Smith said, "I am proud to succeed Vincent Torras and take over his department, the finest volunteer fire department in the state. I appreciate the years of work that have gone into building such a department with the finest equipment, the finest men with the finest training."

Honorary Fire Chiefs J. O. Handley and Fred Godwin also spoke of the years of helpful association they had enjoyed with Chief Torras. Added to their tributes were those of the fire chiefs of Carmel Highlands, Monterey, Salinas and Fort Ord. The chiefs each stressed the aid Torras' had given them especially when he responded, with the department, at fires they were unable to handle alone.

"Vince and eight men were at the Highlands in 15 minutes," said Highlands Chief Seizo Kodani telling how in desperation he had phoned Torras when the Highlands was threatened by a fire two winters ago.

"The wind was blowing a gale, one of the worst in years, it was bitter cold, and Vince and his men stayed and worked with us until the fire was under control."

Councilmen James Buffington and John Chitwood added their praises to those of Mayor Horace

Abel Soloist For First Symphony Concert Here

First Monterey County Symphony Orchestra concert of the 1956-57 season will be on Monday night at 8:30 o'clock in Sunset Auditorium.

Conductor Gregory Millar, recently returned from an engagement with the New York Opera Company, will present the orchestra in Barber's Essay for Orchestra; Beethoven's Violin Concerto in D.; and the Tchaikowsky Sixth Symphony.

David Abel, violin soloist for the Beethoven concerto, has appeared here before with the County Symphony. Last year he played four times as soloist with the San Francisco Symphony under conductor Enrique Jorda; and three times with the Boston Symphony under Pierre Monteux.

Abel also played on the Standard Hour last season and this year is scheduled to appear with 36 major orchestras throughout the United States.

Season ticket holders, who also subscribe to the Peninsula Concert Association, which is presenting dancers Nora Kovach and Istvan Rabovsky on Monday night in Pacific Grove, may have their Symphony tickets honored at the Sunday evening concert of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra in the Salinas High School Auditorium at 7:15 o'clock. The same program will be played as at Monday's concert in Carmel.

The Dune Again In Negotiable Limits

During the Thanksgiving weekend city council representative will meet with Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, owners of The Dune, the handsome pile of sand that separates the north end of Carmel Beach and the coming and going tides of the Pacific Ocean. Three houses could be built between the city owned beach and the Pacific high water mark.

An early appraisal of the property as $53,000 broke down when it was discovered that the piece involved less than had been thought. Council and appraisers met again last week and again reached negotiable figures. City Attorney Tom Perry has been asked to draw up an option with the Crawfords.

At its next meeting, the city council will vote on acquiring the land and calling for a bond election, which must carry by two-thirds majority.

CARMEL-PACIFIC GROVE
PLAY TO 7-7 DEADLOCK

Two quick scoring thrusts in the first quarter and a pair of successful conversion kicks produced seven points for both sides last Saturday afternoon as Pacific Grove and Carmel struggled to a 7-7 tie in their annual Peninsula grid crucial. Although the ball changed hands often and moved around the field a lot, neither team could muster a scoring punch after the first period as the defensive units of both schools threw up stubborn bulwarks to thwart all scoring opportunities. Carmel's junior-varsity played a solid hard-hitting game to down the Pacific Grove Wavelets, 27 to 0, in the preliminary tilt. The Little Padres scored three times in the first half with big Bob Goldwater's running doing most of the damage to the Pacific Grove defense.

Pacific Grove's varsity threatened to turn the game into a rout in the early minutes as a little speedster, Steve Bailey, zipped 45 yards for a touchdown on the second play of the game. The Breakers received Pat Harney's short kickoff on their 43-yard line and went right to work with Jim Fisher circling the Padre left flank for 12 yards and a first down on the Carmel 45. On a well-executed trap through the middle, Bailey cleared the Padre line and zipped through the red and grey secondary for a brilliant touchdown gallop. Connie Mosley's conversion kick was true and the Grove was in front, 7 to 0, with less than two minutes gone in the game. After receiving the kickoff, the Padres were held for downs and were forced to punt. Charley Dawson's booming punt went out of bounds on the PG 18 yard line and on the first play the Breakers fumbled the ball away to Carmel's hustling end, Art Wilkerson. In three shots at the PG line Charley Dawson had the touchdown, going over on a quarterback sneak from the 2 yard line. Kicking from Cim Conway's hold, Dawson's kick was between the uprights and after four minutes of play the game was all knotted up at 7-7. From this point on, the defenses took over and wiped out all further scoring chances.

Steve Bailey, Jerry Millette, and Jim Fisher were the outstanding performers for the Breakers who turned in their best game of the current season. Bailey was the best runner to show at Bardarson Field this season, being very elusive in the open field and showing good power through the line.

It was Carmel's defensive unit which took charge for the Padres when the hard-charging PG line bottled up the stuttering offense. Captain Joe Mason and a sturdy line of Mike Meheen, Art Wilkerson, Don Smith, Fred Nelson, and Phil Durbrow closed the gates to the Breakers after the early scoring thrust. Carmel's outstanding backfield performer was defensive halfback, Dennis Peavey, who tackled with real authority and was instrumental in breaking up the strong Pacific Grove passing attack. Only a sophomore in his first year of football, Peavey made eight tackles and knocked down five Pacific Grove passes.

Saturday's game was the finale for Carmel High seniors Jack Faia, Dave Ostrander, Charley Leavitt, John Stiles, Bob Leidig, Mike Meheen, Captain Charley Dawson, Brian Leidig, Clyde Klauermann, Bob Durbrow, Paul Prince, Don Smith, and Bill Hook. This year's Padre squad was evenly divided with 13 seniors and 13 underclassmen so the prospects for the 1957 season are bright insofar as experienced personnel is concerned.

Coach Buzz Rainer's junior-varsity squad earned a tie for first place in the JV league by blasting the Breaker Babes, 27 to 0. Sharing the top spot with Rainer's Ramblers are the Little Spartans from Gonzales who clipped King City to reach the top rung. Six junior-varsity seniors played their final game for Carmel High as Bert Macahilig, Doug Carlson, Gilbert Boyer, John Meyenberg, Les Laky, and Jim Bannerman donned the red and gray spangles for the last time. Outstanding varsity prospects moving up from the junior-varsity are Mike Raggett, George Blanks, Al Eaker, Hal Gregerson, Phil White, Robin Way, Bill Hicks, John Morse, Rodney Phillips, Bob Goldwater, Armin Jones, Jim Lee, Roger Premier, Jon Stuefloten, Sam Farr, and Jerry Stuefloten.

Col. Freehoff Is Heraldry Expert

operating his headquarters from the old Imperial Hotel.

In 1926, pursuing his professional career, Freehoff went to the Infantry School at Fort Benning, Georgia, thence to the Command and General Staff School at Leavenworth. Eventually he became Executive Officer for Gen. George Marshall at Fort Benning got to know both Marshall and Omar Bradley well.

In 1932 he went to the Army War College in Washington and stayed on as Executive Officer of the Faculty until 1936. Stints at Camp Perry, Ohio and Fort Mead, Maryland were followed by the District Command of the old C.C. C. for Maryland and in 1937 Freehoff became America's military attache to Mexico.

Here he had a long whirl at the diplomatic life, and enjoyed it, but was glad to get back to soldiering. After service in N. Dakota and at Fort Lewis, Washington, he found himself at Camp Roberts in 1940.

With the outbreak of the war he immediately shipped to Boston as Chief of Staff of the Port of Embarkation and thence to New Orleans. From there he took an entire replacement depot overseas to England and France, retiring right after the war in 1946.

Married back in 1917, Col. Freehoff has one son, now a newspaper editor in Tennessee. He moved to Carmel in 1946 and has been here ever since.

Freehoff's army career first aroused a serious interest in heraldry. (Heraldry, incidentally, he says is the science which teaches one to describe coats of arms. It is a type of shorthand of history.)

During the Middle Ages Freehoff points out, heraldry had many practical uses. In the first place, many nobles could not sign their names but used a seal with their coat of arms instead. It became imperative for a traveled man, or one with widespread contacts, to be able to recognize these.

In addition a man's emblem was worn on his shield or armor so that his men could rally around it in battle. Most European countries to this day have some sort of official college of arms. In England, for instance, the College of Arms, headed by the Duke of Norfolk, is empowered to tear down any monument or destroy any carriage to this very day which uses a coat of arms improperly. An individual who does so, is also liable to fine and imprisonment. They take their heraldry seriously in Olde England.

In this country the New England Historic and Genealogical Society keeps track of those families entitled to authentic coats of arms. It is still possible for a king to grant a coat to this day and, as a matter of fact, the English sovereign did so for Douglas Fairbanks Jr. just a few years ago.

Heraldry is still employed to a much greater extent than people realize. Not only every nation but every civic organization as well as virtually every military unit has its own coat. Right here on the Peninsula Freehoff points out, anyone who wants to glance at a fire or police truck of any of the cities can quickly see how heraldry is still employed.

Students of history make a considerable use of the science in the study of old church windows, tombstones and other monuments. Col. Freehoff himself has over 300 volumes on the subject in what is unquestionably one of the finest libraries on heraldry in the United States.

Freehoff points out that a woman (who wears an insignia called a lozenge) brought her arms to her husband when she was married, and that their child carried both his fathers' and his mother's arms in his shield. Formerly taught as part of a gentlemen's education, heraldry was used widely in Japan, China, all the European countries, and much of North Africa.

It still bothers Freehoff when he sees arms used incorrectly.

He currently is on a small private campaign to try and eliminate the use of the expression 'bar sinister' to indicate an illegitimate offspring in literature. The expression correctly should be 'baton Sinister' (which is what is indicated on a coat of arms) Freehoff points out, and many of the proudest families of England and the Continent have a number of such indications on their arms.

He also adds that when Laurence Olivier made the movie 'Henry V', the banners shown were upside down. "I guess nobody but me and the other six American members of the Heraldry Society of England noticed it," Col. Freehoff sighs ruefully. "It probably wouldn't pay the movie companies to hire an expert to get their heraldry straight any more."

Later Miss Lindsay-Oliver gave an impromptu talk about her recent trip and the Edinburgh Festival which was recorded as the most successful, the most crowded, and the wettest! ## The Bank of Carmel Installs Automatic Teller Machines

This week The Bank of Carmel became the first banking institution on the Monterey Peninsula to offer depositors a new, rapid, automatic teller machine service. The system, which provides both bank and depositor with a completely accurate, unalterable record of checking account deposits, is considered one of the most important advances in banking procedures in years.

In addition to the speeding service, the new teller machines provide depositors with a receipt which is an exact transcript of the entry validated on the bank's records at time of deposit. The new system also provides automatically a unit receipt to depositors who wish a duplicate slip but without the necessity of the teller taking time to personally make out such a receipt.

Each Bank of Carmel teller now is equipped with a modern, automatic, receipt-registering machine in his individual cage. Officers of the Bank of Carmel predict that the newly installed automatic system will greatly speed service, especially on days of heaviest bank traffic, and that, as well, it will expedite paper work behind tellers' cages. The new, automatic system virtually eliminates the possibility of human error inevitable in the hand-recording of deposits, thereby assuring both bank and depositors of a new level of accuracy and confidential service in checking account transactions.

The new system will be in effect at The Bank of Carmel November 15.

Carmel High's Band To Participate In Berkeley Band Day

The November 17 festival of bands will be a 33 per-cent increase over last year's 65 bands and marks the biggest high school visitation ever to be presented at the University of California.

One hundred twenty seven bus loads of bandmen will begin arriving in Berkeley Friday afternoon. Friday night the visiting students will be treated to a guided tour of San Francisco and a two-hour excursion of San Francisco Bay by chartered boat.

Letters To The Editor

November 9, 1956

Editor, The Pine Cone
Dear Mrs. Cook:

The prominence given Robinson Jeffers' sale of property to pay taxes (Page 1-Pine Cone, November 8) brings this thought vividly to mind:

Carmel is honored to have two great men of international fame living here: Robinson Jeffers and Edward Weston. Carmel frequently uses these two great names for prestige and publicity.

I propose that Carmel graciously give tax-free sanctuary to both Robinson Jeffers and Edward Weston. What better way to honor them, and by so doing, pay tribute to the Arts which have given so much to Carmel?

Sincerely,
Francois Martin,

Johnson will speak. He was Director of Social and Technical Assistance Program of AFSC in Jordan from 1952 until the project was suspended early this year when the headquarters were destroyed in Arab anti-Western riots. Colored slides of the Jordan Project will be shown.

The public is invited to the afternoon and/or evening programs and to the supper. Information about food contributions may be secured at FR 5-5973.

Tchaikowsky's Ballet In Local Rehearsal

Final rehearsals are under way and December 1 is set for the opening of Tchaikowsky's Nutcracker, the full length Christmas ballet presented annually by the Carmel Ballet Company of the Carmel Ballet Academy, producer Dudley Nix announced today.

With brilliant new choreography, costumes and settings, and the guest appearance of San Francisco danseur, Jerome Brannen, dancing the Cavalier, the 1956 version of the famed classic promises to surpass even last seasons' critically acclaimed performances which played to packed houses both in Carmel and Salinas last year.

The Nutcracker, a perennial favorite with balletomanes during the holiday season since its Russian premier in 1892, tells the story, in pantomime and dance of a Victorian Christmas party, a little girl's gift of a nutcracker, and her dream journey into a land of sweets, presided over by the dancing Sugar Plum Fairy and her Cavalier. Pamela Beales, artist ballerina of the Carmel Ballet Company will portray the Sugar Plum Fairy.

Under the direction of Joanne Nix, formerly of Sadler's Wells who created a complete new choreography for the Peninsula staging, The Nutcracker last year was called a "triumphant production, smoother and more entertaining than most professional offerings."

In what augurs well to become a holiday tradition in the area, offering to dancers what the Bach Festival offers brilliant young musicians, performances of The Nutcracker this season have been enlarged to include staging in Salinas, Watsonville and Santa Cruz in addition to the four performances slated for the Sunset auditorium in Carmel.

With a company of seventy, including eight adults, reservations for the coming performances of The Nutcracker may be made at the Browse Around Music Shop in Carmel, or Abinante's Music Store in Monterey, Mr. Nix said.

THANKSGIVING LESSON-SERMON CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

Spontaneous expressions of gratitude for God's goodness will be featured at the Thanksgiving service announced by First Church of Christ, Scientist, Monte Verde at Sixth, Carmel, for 11:00 a.m., on Thanksgiving Day.

All are invited to this special service. The voluntary testimonies from the floor will include gratitude for spiritual growth, physical healings and other blessings.

A Lesson-Sermon for the day entitled "Thanksgiving" will emphasize the importance of living one's gratitude to God. To be read in all Christian Science churches, the Lesson-Sermon will consist of selections from the King James Version of the Bible and from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy.

The service is open to the public and local church members have invited everyone to attend.

Chamber Music At Stevenson School

The Robert Louis Stevenson School in Pebble Beach presented its faculty teacher of music, Louis Fragos, violinist, and several other well known members of the Monterey County Symphony Orchestra in an interesting concert of Chamber Music, Tuesday evening, to a large neighborhood audience in the comfortable Assembly Hall.

Two Sonatas, by Corelli and Beethoven, a Hayden Trio, Three Pieces by Bruch and a Vivaldi Concerto comprised the program pleasantly performed by Fragos, Helen Schutes and Sheila Webster, violin; Marie Sale, viola; Carol Marsh, cello; pianists Camille Olaf and Jean Vincent.

Few localities can offer two public chamber music concerts within one week and both containing fine performance. Yes, we are growing in musical interest and development on the Peninsula to which the Stevenson School is contributing its share. —L.O.

After Dark In Last Performance Nov. 17

After Dark, melodrama of the 1860's which has been running at the First Theatre, Monterey, closes this week end, with performances tomorrow night, November 16, and Saturday night, November 17.

One of the most exciting events and significant in Peninsula theatre history is the opening of Disraeli at the First Theatre on Friday night, November 23. The drama will be directed by Carmel's outstanding man of the Theatre, Charles Thomas. Based on the acquisition of the Suez Canal Shares by Great Britain in 1875, the drama is full of intrigue, suspense and romance, with Russian spies in No. 10 Downing Street and the race to Egypt to gain control of the canal and of India.

The title role of Disraeli, prime minister of England, which was immortalized by George Arliss, will be played by Donald J. Ross; Anne McElroy Fry plays Mrs. Travers, the Russian spy. Other roles include Carolyn Clark as Clarissa; Madeleine Hicks as Lady Beaconsfield, wife of Disraeli; Virginia Beattie as the Duchess of Glastonbury; Marian Young as Lady Brooke; Dale Skillicorn as Charles, Viscount Deeford; William Fitzhugh as the Duke of Glastonbury; Hilary Urwick as Sir Michael Probert, head of the Bank of England; Steve Pack as Foljambe, Russian spy; Lewis Perkins as Potter; John Sullivan as the butler; Paul Stewart as a page.

Small and large printing orders are quickly filled at The Pine Cone Press. Dial Carmel MA 4-3881.

Conservation On The March

A Weekly Column by
C. Edward Graves
Western Representative,
National Parks Association

WHOOPEE CONSERVATION

The question of the survival of a certain species of bird or animal belongs to the field of wilderness conservation. Certainly one of the wise uses of wilderness is for the purpose of protecting threatened species. Wildlife management of species not threatened with extinction is concerned with "open seasons" and "game limits". How many of them can be "harvested", if this particular resource is wisely used? Conservation here becomes a question of good judgment in management on the part of wildlife officials. There is sometimes disagreement in a particular situation among conservationists themselves.

In the case of the survival of a species, however, there is no disagreement. A recent release of the Fish and Wildlife Service is a heartening reminder that when such a rare species of birds as the whooper cranes has been reduced to a pitifully small remnant, even the gunners will forego their sport in the interest of sentiment. The release reports an incident that took place on the shores of the Harlan County Reservoir in Nebraska the last week in October.

A flock of several hundred geese grazing there included two of the remaining 26 whooping cranes known to be alive and free. Rather than run the risk of shooting these two precious individuals, the gunners refrained from bagging an easy limit of geese in a gesture that is certainly a tribute to the finer qualities of the human spirit.

Newspapers and magazines are more and more coming to appreciate the dramatic qualities of the annual migration of the whooping cranes from northern Canada to the Aransas Wildlife Refuge in southern Texas. A recent report that one of their number had been killed by striking a power line in Nebraska made a news item in many papers. It developed afterwards that it was a white pelican instead of a crane, but the significant thing about it was that the fate of a single bird was considered important enough to be put on the news wires. There is perhaps hope for a vanishing species, when the public is so keenly concerned.

In the midst of writing this column I heard a commotion in our livingroom. Investigating, I found a pygmy nuthatch that had flown in the open door and was beating against a window in an effort to escape. Picking it up in a stunned condition, I carried it outside, perched on my thumb. For several minutes I enjoyed its company and finally had the pleasure of seeing it revive and take off suddenly into a near-by pine tree.

This feeling of kinship with wildlife is perhaps what some people would call sentimentality or emotion. Whatever it is, I believe it is responsible for the great public interest in and sympathy for the small band of whooping cranes in their efforts toward survival. I think it is not far below the surface in everyone, and that dramatization of the plight of a species of birds, as well as sometimes of certain human beings, brings it quickly to the fore.

An editorial about the whooping cranes in the Christian Science Monitor of October 31 ends with these pertinent words: "Should the whooping crane vanish because of men's wantonness or for want of their protection, then will vanish also a fraction of those values which give dignity to human society and bind it together".

MOUNTAIN SHEEP HUNTING

Keith Evans and Sam Hopkins are back from hunting mountain sheep, caribou and moose in the Rocky Mountains. They flew to Fort St. John, 700 miles north-east of Vancouver, then, with a guide, packed on horseback into the mountains for four days before they set up camp in snow and zero weather. The hunting was good and both Sam and Keith each got a caribou, moose and mountain sheep.

"But it was a little too far away to bring the meat home," says Keith.

P. G. and E. answers your questions about

electric blankets

Q. Do you really sleep better with an electric blanket?

A. Almost everyone does. An electric blanket lets you dial the sleeping comfort that suits you best. It spreads gentle warmth evenly over the entire bed—and keeps it at the temperature you want—all night long, regardless of the weather outside.

Q. How do you control the warmth?

A. Just turn the blanket "ON" each night—it does the rest! If the room temperature rises or falls, the blanket corrects for this temperature change—automatically.

Q. What about the new dual controls?

A. You can now buy an electric blanket with two controls—one control for each half of the blanket. This way husband and wife can select the sleeping comfort he or she likes best.

Q. How do you make a bed with an electric blanket?

A. Some models have "box" corners for perfect fit. Others spread across the bed like an ordinary blanket. Either way, bed-making is fast and easy!

Q. Can they be laundered?

A. Yes—just follow the manufacturer's instructions. Made of cotton, rayon, nylon and the new "miracle" fabrics, they dry soft, fluffy and ready to spread.

Q. What sizes are available?

A. You can now get "twin," "double" and the new "king" size (twice twin bed size). Both single and dual controls are available on the double bed size.

Q. How many people own electric blankets?

A. In Northern California more than half a million people now sleep under electric blankets.

Q. What does it cost to operate one?

A. Just a penny a night, thanks to P. G. and E.'s low rates for electricity—a mighty small price for a good night's sleep! Don't you agree?

Electricity is cheap in California!

Chamber Music Concert

BY MARY LINDSAY-OLIVER

The Second Concert of this Season's Carmel Chamber Music Society last Sunday impressed me as being the best all round program so far heard, in variety and distinction—though I missed several local concerts while abroad.

For a Vivaldi Sonata for two violins, cello and piano, the playing of Jerald Slavich, David Hagemeyer, Constantin Vadetsky and Gilbert Boyer was much enjoyed.

A little-known Hindemith Sonata for Horn and Klavier was admirably rendered by Joseph Axup and Boyer. The horn playing of Axup was particularly fine.

Melvin Baddin, a brilliant violinist, made his first appearance here with Jean Vincent, a scholarly and resourceful pianist, in Flococo's Allegro, Mozart's Sonata in G (two Movements) and Nigun from Baal Shem Suite by Block. This last named composition is one of great power and depth of feeling, which the artists together achieved and for which they received an ovation. This was followed by Purcell's stirring "Arise, Ye Subterranean Winds," sung by another newcomer, John Sherman, basso, stationed at Fort Ord. Intense strength of both tone and sentiment was conveyed by the singer and accompanist Boyer. Sherman has a voice of rich bass quality, which he uses with much musical and technical ability bespeaking public experience. His whole performance in Lully's Bois Epais, Ravel's Three Chansons from Don Quichotte a Dulcinee, and Respighi's Nebbie was received with enthusiasm. The Respighi composition, another of depth and unusual construction in its climbing and descending scales, held the audience spellbound.

Mozart's Trio for clarinet, viola and piano in three movements following the intermission was another highlight in an excellent ensemble of Robert Lee, Marie Sale and Camille Olaeta, a well balanced group.

Lorell McCann, who conducted the Monterey County Symphony orchestra in its early days, appeared as composer with a romantic poem for viola and piano (first performance on the Peninsula) and was rewarded with an ovation. His poem which musically suited his instrument, was performed with much feeling, accompanied by Boyer. Finally the Vivaldi Concerto in C minor for flute, oboe, violin, bassoon and piano with cello, presented five already well-known local artists — Pattie and Lloyd Clapper, Jerald Slavich, George Koteles, Gilbert Boyer and Constantin Vadetsky, making a brilliantly rounded-out finale to the whole. Although somewhat long, such a program leaves good anticipation for the next.

Dene Denny Back From "Grand Tour"

Miss Dene Denny is back in Carmel, busily preparing the play Disraeli for presentation at the First Theater, after two months in Europe. Air travel enabled Miss Denny to see a lot of Europe in the short time she was able to be absent from Carmel. She flew the Atlantic, New York to Paris, and could hardly believe that in the space of less than a day she was seeing the Seine for the first time.

While in Paris Dene Denny saw Versailles, Notre Dame Cathedral, (and thinks the stained glass windows of Notre Dame are the most beautiful she saw in any European cathedral) and attended performances at the Opera and the Folies Bergeres.

Then by plane to Switzerland where she visited Zurich, Lucerne, motored through the Swiss Alps to Interlaken, and stopped in Montreux and Geneva.

The next plane trip took Dene Denny to Nice and Monte Carlo where she won 20 francs at the Casino and visited the Palace.

Italy was the end of the next flight and Miss Denny spent time in Rome, Capri, Florence, and Venice.

"It was exciting", she says, "to arrive in the Venice station and then be taken by gondola to my hotel."

After Italy Miss Denny traveled to Austria, with Innsbruck, Salzburg, Vienna and Munich on her itinerary. In Vienna she saw Prince Igor at the Opera House and was most impressed by the performance of Otello at the Munich State Opera House. Next came Heidelberg and a private car trip through surrounding medieval towns. Then by boat down the Rhine to Cologne past the wonderful Rhineland castles.

Another plane trip to London, "which I liked best of all", and where Miss Denny saw seven plays and heard a London Philharmonic concert conducted by Sir Thomas Beecham with Isaac Stern as soloist.

Back across the Atlantic for a week in New York, seven more plays, and then home to Carmel.

Singleton Named Engr. Science Extension Head

Rear Admiral Charles Tod Singleton, Jr., of Monterey has been named head of University of California Engineering and Sciences Extension at Berkeley, it was announced this week by Thomas N. Barrows, Associate Director of University Extension.

Admiral Singleton retired this year after a distinguished career of thirty years service with the United States Navy. His last post was the Director of the Engineering School, U. S. Naval Postgraduate School, Monterey.

The New Extension Department of Engineering and Sciences represents the growth and development of post-graduate courses in those fields. According to Dr. Barrows, a number of new courses serving the needs of scientists, technicians and engineers will be offered as the department continues to grow. The former Head of Engineering Extension, Professor Joe W. Kelly will now serve as Vice-Chairman of the University Department of Engineering in charge of special programs.

A graduate of the United States Naval Academy and the U. S. Naval Postgraduate School at Annapolis, Admiral Singleton was in charge of the engineering, construction, test and operation of the new U.S. destroyer completed after World War I. In 1937-39 while serving with the Navy Department Bureau of Engineering, he was responsible for the design specification, development and testing of many new instruments for ship and fire control use.

During World War II, he commanded the Destroyers Brooks, and Kalk, served as Executive Officer of the U.S.S. Tuscaloosa, and was Commander of Destroyer Squadron Six. Immediately following the war he was placed in charge of ordinance engineering, mathematics, chemical engineering and metallurgy at the Naval Postgraduate School at Annapolis. Here he initiated the Navy's first curricula in nuclear engineering and guided missile propulsion and guidance, and was responsible for the first all-service curriculum in nuclear radiation effects, a program sponsored by the Armed Forces Special Weapons Program.

From 1949 to 1951, Admiral Singleton served with the rank of Captain as a member of the Joint Staff, Joint Chiefs of Staff. During the Korean War he was Division Commander of Transport Division Eleven in Korea and Deputy Chief of Staff, Naval Forces Far East, Japan.

In announcing the appointment, Dr. Barrows commented, "Admiral Singleton brings to this organization a splendid background in the development of training activities in the Navy. He is also thoroughly familiar with industry and civilian training in the fields of engineering and science. We welcome him to this expanding activity in University Extension."

Neighbors Satisfied With Action Taken At Golden Bough

Edward Heaton, one of the group of residents in the vicinity of the Golden Bough Movie Theater, who petitioned the city council to control outside lighting at the theater, has asked the Pine Cone publicly to thank the council for their quick action in remedying the situation.

The too bright lighting has been controlled, after police inspection, and now, according to Mr. Heaton, "Those who protested to the council are being well served and are happy once more." Joining Edward Heaton in thanking the council are Miss Barbara Curtin, Miss Leora Williams and Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Hamm.

FOLK SONG RECITAL
A rare song recital was heard in the Seaside Auditorium Saturday, presented by the Community Concert Association. International Folk Songs and Ballads, sung in semi-character, with a guitar accompaniment, were adroitly played by the contralto Beverly Gile while she sang together with the soprano, Frances Archer. In facial and acting suggestions, all was so skilfully and musically rendered, that the performance stands as a unique duo in the concert field, lending dignity and new interest to well-known ditties, coupled with illuminating explanations of their history. Here was a real contribution to the Peninsula's musical activity by enterprising Seaside, which many who would have appreciated, unfortunately missed.—L.O.

FROM A LIBRARIAN'S NOTEBOOK

By Ruth Galya Thornburg

Now and again some article is abandoned in the library which seems like a tragic loss. At present we have a pair of brown rimmed spectacles, which are quite a strong correction, and which we have put on display for about two weeks in the vain hope that their owner would see and recognize them. Have you lost a pair of brown glasses, and if you have, will you please take a look at these? We should be delighted to have them reunited with their owner.

A new second edition of a world famous book on mental illness has recently been edited by Oscar Kaplan. The title is Mental Disorders in Later Life. Many subjects are handled in this book which might not seem to come under the scope of the title. For instance, there is a most helpful chapter on food and nutrition in later life, which discusses the problem of adequate diet on a very small income. This idea calls to mind a statement attributed to a physician at the State Hospital at Agnew, when he said that many older persons are admitted there, definite mental cases, which improve so quickly under an adequate diet, that they are soon allowed to return to their homes. It now seems clear that there is a definite relationship between diet and mental health. The Kaplan book includes very good bibliographies at the end of each chapter. One book listed with the chapter on diet is Adele Davis' Let's Cook It Right, which is in this library as well as her other books, Vitality Through Planned Nutrition, and Let's Eat Right to Keep Fit. We might all take as our motto, Eat Right and Keep Away from Agnew.

Charles I and the Puritan Upheaval is a study of Puritan England and the reasons so many people journeyed to New England to make their homes. The book was actually written by Allen French, but after his death it was readied for publication by his wife, Aletta French. Allen French was a teacher of history at Harvard, and the author of several other excellent books on history.

Another history, this time of our own Civil War, was written by Bruce Catton and called This Hallowed Ground. This is the war as seen from the Union side. You will recall that in 1954, Bruce Catton won a Pulitzer Prize for his A Stillness at Appomattox. This latest book has had excellent reviews. It too might prove to be a prize winner.

The Public Arts by Gilbert Selles is a report on the movies, radio, and television. Selles writes entertainingly and well; he was not a Phi Beta Kappa by accident. His chapter on Bing Crosby is a sincere tribute which should be of special interest in this area.

During the last World War, a daring German commander named Otto Kretschmer, was captured by the Allies only after he had sunk 55 of their ships. The story of Kretschmer's exploits, his subsequent capture and life as a prisoner of war, is well told by an English writer, Terrence Robertson. Kretschmer will be remembered as the U-boat commander who rescued the crews of the ships his torpedoes had sunk, providing them with food, blankets, and brandy.

Five new novels this week include Roll Shendoah by Bruce Lancaster, Ilex Avenue by Janet Whitney, and another effervescent British story by Georgette Heyer entitled Sprig Muslin.

Jack Keith

John Richard Keith died on Friday morning at his home at Santa Rita and Second Streets. He had been in ill health for the past several months but his death was a shock to his many friends.

Mr. Keith had lived in Carmel for six years. He was a member of the advertising staff of the Pine Cone at the time of his death. Before this he owned and operated the Travelers Lodge on San Carlos Street. Previous to coming to Carmel to live, Mr. Keith resided in Los Angeles and sold advertising for Foster and Kleiser Company. He was born in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, on April 23, 1894. He was a veteran of World War I.

Survivors are his wife, June Keith of Carmel, and two sisters, Mrs. Mildred Schlage of North Hollywood and Mrs. Calvin Jones of Ridgewood, New Jersey.

Services were held on Friday in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium. Paul Mortuary was in charge of arrangements.

Don Hurd

Don Hurd died on October 31 in the Stanford Hospital in San Francisco of a heart ailment. He represented Metro Associated Services, Inc. of New York City in their western territory for over 16 years. He had also worked in advertising and promotion departments of newspapers in San Francisco, Redwood City, Eureka, Marysville, San Jose and Los Angeles.

He is survived by his wife, Virginia Hurd, and a daughter, Virginia Stephanie Hurd, both living in Pebble Beach.

Sierra Club Visits Peninsula

Twenty-six members of the Sierra Club and their friends paid a visit to the Monterey Peninsula the past weekend on an outing sponsored by the Loma Prieta Chapter. Saturday was spent visiting the Pacific Grove Museum, the butterfly trees and other points of interest. On Sunday the group gathered at Pt. Lobos State Reserve for lunch and a hike through the park. Local members participating in the outing included Bill Coleman of Pt. Lobos, Mrs. Caroline Weaver of Pacific Grove and Fremont Ballou of Carmel, who acted as trip leader.

Their "organically" designed house is planned as twin studios and living area for the Finks' activities, with a huge deck for outside relaxation and an inner patio which Dr. and Mrs. Fink are paving with mosaics they design and make themselves with jade and jasper stones they have collected down the coast.

Dr. Fink has recently returned from Los Angeles where he appeared on ABC's Meet The Celebrity program and gave talks to religious groups on the relation between mental health and spiritual values. The American Broadcasting Company will have the same program shortly over their San Francisco station.

Dr. Fink's books, translated into 17 foreign languages, are in the Army Language School library at the Presidio. He was previously on the faculty at the University of Michigan.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SERMON
How Christ Jesus healed sickness and discord of every kind will be brought out at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Master's healing of the woman who had "a spirit of infirmity eighteen years, and was bowed together and could in no wise lift up herself" (Luke 13), will be included in the scriptural readings in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul and Body."

From "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, the following selection will be among those read (210:11-16): "Knowing that Soul and its attributes were forever manifested through man, the Master healed the sick, gave sight to the blind, hearing to the deaf, feet to the lame, thus bringing to light the scientific action of the divine Mind on human hands and bodies and giving a better understanding of Soul and salvation."

BASKETBALL PRACTICE OPENS AT CARMEL HIGH

With the football gear put away in mothballs for another year, Carmel High athletic activity is shifting to basketball for the next four months. Opening action is slated for November 30 when the Padres journey to Watsonville for a triple-header with the powerful Wildcat Carmel's Firehouse Five plays the Wildcat junior-varsity at 4:00 o'clock, the lightweight teams tangle at 6:00, and the varsities take over at 7:00 o'clock. From the 30th on, it is two games a week for the Padres until the Annual Carmel Tourney winds up the season on March 7.

Carmel has three lettermen back from last year's championship team which lost only two league games. Clyde Klaumann, Charley Dawson, and Bob Durbrow are monogram winners returning for another year of cage action and will provide the nucleus for the 1956-57 quintet. Dale Dawson, rangy center on last year's lightweight squad, is the only lightweight letterman moving up to the varsity this season. Experienced lightweights back for another season with the Babes are Walter Helm, George Crispo, Jack Faia, Jamie Holman, and Pete Hansen.

This is a Fish Ladder

Once a year the Steelhead, those great game fish of the West, swim in from the sea and fight their way up the Carmel River to spawn.

Two obstructions prevent them from getting to the upper reaches of the river by way of the stream—San Clemente Dam and Los Padres Dam—to help them over we built special ladders for them to climb.

The one illustrated above is the San Clemente ladder. It is a series of pools connected by waterfalls which the fish can easily jump. The ladder winds its way up the cliff to the top of the dam where an entrance to the lake is provided.

"A Fire Siren Is Sacred" Even For Retiring Chief

Lyon, who was out of town but expressed his appreciation of Torras' long service in a letter read to those present by Harrison Godwin.

Fire department members Jim Kelsey, John Hudelson and Bernard Roberts told how they valued their association with Chief Torras through the years, working under him. Pon Chung stood and expressed his feelings about Torras without words, but with a fine mustachioed smile. Police Chief Clyde Klaumann told about the help he had received from Torras, especially when Torras sent 25 firemen to help him on his first Halloween in Carmel, six days after he had become police chief.

Material expression of the city's thanks for Torras' work was shown by Fire Commissioner Pat-nude when he presented Chief Torras with a five-bugled veteran's badge signifying his fire department chief's rank. The Carmel Volunteer Fire Department expressed their appreciation of the Chief and Mrs. Torras by presenting them with twin wrist watches. Mrs. Torras' watch is engraved with the inscription "Mary, for patience" and on Retiring Chief Torras' watch are the words "To a fine fireman."

Sitting at the head table with Chief and Mrs. Torras were their two daughters, Willette and Mary Ada, and their son, Vincent, Jr. Outside the banquet hall stood two fire engines, ready in case the new siren should blow and call out the fire department.

Tuesday, November 20, tryouts for the skits will be held at the Youth Center, and the variety of entertainment to be offered will be very good, director Jack Giles says, because the show will be held to one hour performance time.

Thursday after Thanksgiving, the chorus line will start its workouts under the direction of Bonnie Giles.

Helen P. Grandy

Mrs. Helen P. Grandy died on Monday night in an Oakland hotel. She had planned to fly to New York on Wednesday and sail on a Mediterranean cruise on Friday. Mrs. Grandy had been in poor health for some time but her death, presumably of a heart attack, was unexpected.

A native Californian, Mrs. Grandy had made her home in Carmel for the past 15 years. She spent her early youth in Oakland and was a graduate of the University of California. Mrs. Grandy was a member of the Carmel Presbyterian Church and an active worker for the Carmel chapter of the American Red Cross.

Survivors are a son, Willis P. Grandy of San Antonio, Texas, and two grandchildren.

Funeral services conducted by the Reverend Joseph M. Ewing will be on Friday afternoon at 3:00 o'clock in the Little Chapel-by-the-Sea Crematorium. Inurnment will be in Mountain View Cemetery in Oakland. Paul Mortuary is in charge of arrangements.
